

Sustainability

We believe that sustainability is an important factor in modern and traditional building and to this end we work closely with our training partners to ensure that we pass these skills on to future generations of tradesmen, B & R Roofing aim to have at least two new entrant apprentices every year, but we don't rest there, we have an ongoing programme to regularly upgrade the skills and knowledge of our existing craftsmen and management.

However here at B & D Roofing, we don't believe that traditional skills and modern materials are mutually exclusive, that's why we combine the best of both and have developed a range of complementary services to meet the needs of our clients, whatever your project requirement are we can bring a range of experience and innovation to ensure your project objectives are achieved.
